KNOW MAN WHO FIXED THE ROPE

Gov. Patterson Says Evidence Is Complete Against Rankin's Murderers.

REMOVED TO MEMPHIS.

Three Confessed Night Riders to Be Used as Witnesses.

Camp Nemo, Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., Oct. 30.—"We know who fired the shot and who put the rope around Rankin's neck," said Gov. Patterson in a statement this afternoon just before his departure for Union City, where a special grand jury is investigating the night rider depredations in this section, which culminated recently in the murder of Captain Quentin Rankin. The Governor in his statement said:

"The proof which has thus far developed is positive, as the guilt of some of the men under arrest and implicates many others. This will all be presented to the court at the proper time and a long step has been taken to discover and suppress lawlessness in this region. Conditions have been extremely bad, the night riders going from one lawless act to another until the culmination came with the murder of Capt. Rankin and the attempted murder of Col. Taylor. We know who fired the shot and who put the rope around Rankin's neck.

FEW MEN AT KILLING.
"The number of men actually at the killing was probably not more than ten, while some stood guard and others held the horses. The whole number engaged in the undertaking did not exceed thirty-five. The inquiry will be further prosecuted and the state will have ample evidence to convict."

It is learned that Frank Ferriner's confession was full and complete; that he says he was with the men who took Rankin and Taylor to the bank of the slough; that he told the name of the man who pulled the rope lifting the neck's victim into the air, and the name of the man who fired the first shot into Rankin's body. The confessions of Hogg and Morris are also said to be complete. Hogg, it is said, was one of the four men who guarded the horses near the scene of the murder, while Morris stood guard around the house when the leaders went in after Rankin and Taylor.

BURTON'S STORY SUBSTANTIATED.

The confessions of Ferriner, Hogg and Morris substantiate, it is said, that of Tid Burton, who is said to have spread the news among the night riders that Rankin and Taylor were at Walnut Log. These three will be used as state's witnesses. They were started this afternoon for Obion, where they will be taken to Memphis for safe keeping. It is understood that other important witnesses and prisoners, Garrett Johnson, alleged captain of the night riders; Will Watson, John Cochran, Will and Jim Keessecker and may be

DEMANDS A SQUARE DEAL

Republican Auditor Comes to the Defense of David Smith in a Telegram.

La Vega Clements spoke here Friday night and at other points in the county Saturday. W. H. Southall, J. T. Hanbery, Jno. C. Durfy, Walter Knight, W. A. Wilgus and other Democratic speakers all addressed big crowds at appointments at Gracey, Howell, Crofton and other places. Everywhere they found Democrats very much aroused over the local campaign.

Here in the city as well as in the country the Democratic candidates for judge and sheriff, C. W. Morrison and David Smith, have gained many votes during the last week. The speaking here Thursday night was an important factor in this. Mr. Smith's explanation of the way he lost the sheriff's office last spring and his open pledges for law and order, coupled with his defense of his record in office, brought him many wavering votes. Just as this tide of public sentiment was turning toward Mr. Smith, the Republicans made a grievous blunder in an effort to spring a sensation affecting the integrity of the Democratic candidate. A circular was issued charging him with being delinquent $942 in the dog tax fund, this being the amount of the delinquent list of uncollectible dog taxes, no longer in Mr. Smith's hands. The manifest unfairness of this groundless charge was evident to all and was a fatal blunder. The people as a rule admire and demand a square deal, even in politics. Mr. Smith at once produced the following settlement and explanation:

SETTLEMENT.

Settlement of David Smith, sheriff of Christian county, with F. P. James, Auditor of Public Accounts for the State of Kentucky, in matter of Dog Tax collected in accordance with Act of the 1906 session of the General Assembly of Kentucky on 1907 levy.

To amount collected on 2845 dogs at $1 each.....$2845.00
Credits—
Sheriff's 4 per cent commission on $2,845.....$ 113 80
Check this day sent to F. P. James Auditor..... 2731.20

Total.....$2845.00

THE AFFIANT, David Smith, states that as sheriff of Christian county during the year of 1907, and up to the 21st day of June, 1908, the above amount of $2,845.00 is the true amount collected by him as sheriff from the 1907 dog tax levy and that he was unable to collect the balance due on said levy and that the same is now delinquent and the most of it uncollectible.

DAVID SMITH.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by David Smith, this July 29th, 1908.
G. L. CAMPBELL,
Clerk Christian County Court.

And this is a full and complete settlement of every dollar of dog taxes collected by me. I collected $2,845.00 dog taxes out of a total amount of $3,791.00. The balance of $942.00 is largely against poor people, and some of it against people who never owned a dog. I was turned out of office without a chance to collect any more. Any one can verify the truth of this statement by going to the records in the County Clerk's office, which show that this is the delinquent list and nothing more. I have settled for every dollar collected by me and any letters or telegrams from the auditor's office to the contrary on the eve of the election are merely for the benefit of Prowse and Renshaw. DAVID SMITH.

Yesterday morning a further refutation came from an unexpected source, in a telegram from the Republican auditor, which is given below:

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 1, '08.

DAVID SMITH, EX-SHERIFF:

I see they are using in this election your failure to settle the dog tax in full. Court exonerations for what you can't collect is all I want. There are forty sheriffs that have not settled. I stand for "A square deal."

F. P. JAMES, Auditor.

The complete fall down on this charge has convinced many that there was nothing in any of the charges lodged against the Democratic candidate, and he is going to receive the votes of that large class of voters, in all parties, who demand "A Square Deal."

Mr. C. W. Smithson, of the Howell neighborhood, was kicked on the right hand by a mule a few days ago and quite painfully hurt.

ELECTION NEWS

No Arrangements For Associated Press Telegrams.

Up to yesterday afternoon no arrangements had been made for telegraphic news from either telegraph office. The Democrats have been in the habit of making up a fund for the news service, but this time they will rely upon private telephone messages from news centers. The Republicans are evidently unwilling to invest good money in Democratic victories.

Victim of Consumption.

The wife of Mr. Charles Jordan died of consumption Sunday at her home, No. 518 North Clay street after a long illness. The interment took place in Riverside Cemetery yesterday afternoon.

Betting odds against Bryan dropped yesterday in New York from 5 to 1 to 2 to 1.

PROBES FOR THE PRIZERS

Chairman Barker Urges That Responsibility For Bad Condition be Fixed.

SOMEBODY TO BLAME.

The County Committee Held a Well Attended Monthly Meeting.

The county committee of the Planters Association met yesterday in the city court room and an interesting meeting was held at which much business was transacted.

Chairman J. L. Barker presided and nearly all of the members were present.

One of the most important questions discussed was the responsibility for the damages resulting to the farmers from regrading their tobacco.

Dr. Barker declared that all instances of regrading should be probed into. If the tobacco had been improperly fired and failed to pass through the sweat safely, the fault was on the farmer. If it was found to be poorly classified, or of unequal lengths in the same sample, the prize could be held responsible. He asked that everyone make himself a committee of one to investigate and report to him and he would see that the complaints, if there were such, were laid before Mr. Ewing for adjustment. He said no prize had ever been penalized for mistakes in pricing and a close scrutiny into this matter was needed.

At the afternoon session routine matters were taken up and a number of grievances were inquired into growing out of the regrading of tobacco.

The election of a salesman and other county officials and agents was postponed until a called meeting, the date of which will be fixed later.

There will be a hot fight for all of the places to be filled.

The Sheet Anchor.
"That's my sheet anchor"—I, e., my best hope, my last refuge—the sheet anchor of a ship, which in stress of weather is the sailors' chief dependence. The word sheet is a corruption of the word shote (thrown out), meaning the anchor "thrown out" in foul weather. The Greeks and Romans said, "My sacred anchor," referring to the sheet anchor, which was always dedicated to some god.

The Oratory of Gallarus.
The oldest Christian structure in Ireland is a remarkable building, evidently very ancient, but wonderfully well preserved, at Dingle, in County Kerry. It is popularly known as the "Oratory of Gallarus." Who Gallarus was history does not say, but the oratory has stood practically uninjured for more than 1,000 years, he was probably one of the converts of St. Patrick.—London Saturday Review.

An Honest Horse.
An Irish dealer was selling a nag to a gentleman frequently observed with emphatic earnestness that he was an honest horse. After the purchase had been effected the gentleman asked him what he meant by an honest horse.

"Why, sir," replied the seller, "when ever I rode him he always threatened to throw me off, and he certainly never deceived me."—London Mail.

"Is Jimson selfish?"
"Well, they say he has never given his ego cause for a moment's jealousy."—London Mail.

Search for Beauty is Old.
Women even in the time of Pepsy took care of their complexion, as he sets down in his diary the fact that his wife and Jane went down to Woolwich to get the Max dew, with which to wash their faces, and later tells of her rising at three o'clock in the morning to go forth for May dew while he lay troubled lest harm come to her at that early hour.

Earthquakes Cause Panic.
Several earthquake shocks have been felt recently in the Kongou district, Africa. There have been no casualties, but the natives were panic-stricken. Many of them ran for miles and refused to return to their villages unless they received guns and ammunition.

To those afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble, backache, rheumatism, Pineules for the Kidneys bring relief in the first days. Hundreds of people today testify to their remarkable healing and tonic properties. 30 days' trial $1.00. They purify the blood. Sold by Anderson-Fowler Drug Co., Incorporated.

Best Way to Tie Shoe Laces.
A way to keep shoe laces tied is to make a bow in the ordinary way, then insert a buttonhook underneath the center of the bow and draw one loop and one end through (underneath), thus turning the bow practically upside down. Or draw one loop through the other and pull the "newswell" end, so that the loops are knotted.

MAN SUICIDED

When He Found Wedding Could Not Be Set Aside.

Paris, Ky., Oct. 28.—J. W. Hutchison, of Harrison county, a widower with two children, was married here yesterday to Mrs. Nannie C. Swinford, of Cynthiana, and this afternoon killed himself in a lively stable here.

Hutchison and Mrs. Swinford arrived here yesterday about 5 o'clock from Cynthiana and were married shortly afterwards by the Rev. M. T. Chanler, of the Methodist church. They returned to Cynthiana and this morning Hutchison came back to Paris and made an attempt to have the marriage set aside. Finding he was unable to do this he went to the lively stable where he had placed his horse and buggy and fired a bullet through his brain.

Not Allowed To Speak At Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 28.—Emma Goldman was led from the capitolium here when she was about to address a large assembly which had assembled at a fashionable club house to hear her. Twenty police-men were on hand when she arrived and as she stepped into the hall she was told that she would not be permitted to speak in this city. She demurred at first, but the officers gathered around and she was informed that she would have to go to the police station if she persisted. She did not make any further resistance. Ben L. Reitman, who was with her, attempted to speak on a corner near the capitolium, but the police forced him to desist under threat of locking him up.

Magazine Notices.

VANDERBILT WAS 70 Years Old Before He Made His Fortune.

[Burton J. Hendrick in McClure's Magazine for November.]

The Vanderbilt fortune, once the greatest financial power in the United States, probably amounts, at the present moment, to not far from $300,000,000. Of this, William Kissam Vanderbilt, who controls the majority of the family properties, holds in the neighborhood of $100,000,000, while twelve or fifteen descendants of the Commodore share among themselves the remaining $200,000,000.

Perhaps the most remarkable fact in the whole remarkable career of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt is that he did his really important work and heaped up his enormous fortune after he was seventy years old. He was born in 1794, and almost all his energies, until the outbreak of the Civil War, had been absorbed in the management of his numerous steamboat and steamship lines.

COMMODORE CORNELIUS VANDERBILT
Founder of the great Vanderbilt fortune, which is the subject of an interesting article by Burton J. Hendrick.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, when running his steamboats up and down the Hudson River, had felt keenly the competition of the railroad along its eastern shore. Later developments led him clearly to perceive, what most of his contemporaries saw only faintly, that transportation in this country would follow the line, not of the canal and the river, but of the steel rail. As soon as he had caught this glimpse of the future, Vanderbilt characteristically acted upon it. Fifty years before, foreseeing the possibilities of steam travel by water, he had sold his whole sailing fleet and purchased steamboats; acting just as promptly now, he sold all his water craft and began purchasing railroads.

The November American Magazine is a periodical without a dull line in it. The leading feature is a character sketch of the Sultan of Turkey, who, according to the author of this article, is so base that he will not only allow thieves and grafters to wreck his country, but will commit murder with his own hand. Evidently the wave of democratic ideas which is sweeping over the world is drowning out in Turkey as fine a band of pirates as ever practiced the art of oppression.

In the same number Ida M. Tarbell begins a series of two articles entitled, "How Chicago is Finding Herself." She calls Chicago the most wonderful and inspiring city in the United States. Otis Skinner, the actor, reports the story of how Edwin Booth, in the dead of night, burned the papers and costumes which had belonged to his brother, John Wilkes Booth. Dr. William Lee Howard, writing on "Helpless Youth and Useless Men," advocates the separation of boys from girls in our high schools. "The Interpreter" presents an ingratiating character sketch of Thomas A. Edison, in which a mass of new facts is produced. Professor W. I. Thomas writes of "The Psychology of Woman's Dress." "Mr. Dooley" talks on "Uplifting the Farmers."

Notable fiction is contributed by O. Henry, Mary Kelly, William J. Locke, and Brand Whitlock.

Competition is so keen among the magazines nowadays that they have to keep their fictional offerings up to a high standard or go out of business. For this reason a great many good stories appear every month, and for one to stand out noticeably among its fellows, it must be of exceptional quality indeed. Such a tale, however, is the complete novel in the November Lippincott's—"The Viper," by Will Livingston Comfort. The author is a newspaper man of the Middle West, where the opening scenes of the story are laid.

In addition to this excellent complete novel, the November Lippincott's contains half a dozen splendid short stories. "God Have Mercy on Us," by Edith Robinson, is a striking original piece of fiction in both theme and treatment. "A Misogynist in the Making," by Blanche Goodman, is a hilariously funny story of how two school-boys took their "best girls" to an exhibition of hypnotism, with unexpected results. Leading feature of McClure's Magazine for November are: "The Fight for a New Navy," an article showing that steps have been taken to correct the mistakes in the construction of our battleships which were pointed out in McClure's a year ago; "Fire—An American Extravagance," by F. W. Fitzpatrick, who says that we burn down almost as fast as we build; "What Organized Labor Wants," an interview with Samuel Gompers by George Kibbe Turner, and a history of "The Vanderbilt Fortune," by Burton J. Hendrick.

Are Book Reviews New?

There seems to be a difference of opinion among editors as to whether the appearance of an important new book is an event deserving of any mention in a crowded newspaper. Is the review of a good novel or a great history a matter of real public interest? The Chicago Record-Herald is one of the comparatively few newspapers that answers the question in the affirmative by printing reviews and news of the latest books every day in the week. It believes that its readers are intelligent men and women, who wish to keep up with the world's literary events, as well as with other important news. It's literary department, under the editorship of Edwin L. Shuman, is generally acknowledged to be the most ably conducted in the West. Mr. Shuman's reviews are sought and quoted all over the country, and so are those of his brilliant corps of assistants. Walter Littlefield's news letters from New York every Saturday keeps The Record-Herald's readers informed on all the forthcoming books of importance, and a cable dispatch from London every Sunday gives the latest book news of the English capital. Thus by covering the literary events of the world as thoroughly as those of every other field The Record-Herald has become the leading authority in that line west of New York. It is not strange that people of literary taste prefer that Tennessee.

Planters Bank & Trust Co.

Saving the Company.

By CARLETON HAZARD.

Copyright, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

After a long line of incompetent stenographers, Bradley consulted himself when Alice Fuller took her place at the typewriter desk, and as though by magic the crooked places were made straight.

So quietly did the girl slip into the position of the office and so unobtrusively did she accomplish results that Arthur Bradley did not realize all she was doing. He had only the pleasant feeling that at last the office was running straight, and, as a matter of fact, the credit to himself.

It had been a struggle to get the office going at all, for the firm was in opposition to the trust, and everything possible was done to break up the newly established branch office. More than once Bradley had narrowly escaped some trap laid for him, but for every blow struck at him he gave back as good. The letters from the home office were encouraging and intimate, and as if he would round out the first year there would be an increase in salary as well as the present of a block of stock.

The biggest feather in his cap was when the home office turned over to him the task of securing a contract for some $2,000,000 worth of material.

"Such big contracts are usually landed from the home office," he explained to Alice Fuller as he gave her the letter with instructions to place it in the private letter file in the safe. "If they turn this matter over to me it is a sign that they have faith in my judgment. It's going to be a ticklish matter to figure out all that material at a price that will be low enough to capture the contract and still give us as much of a profit as possible."

"They probably realize that you are close to the contract, and they know that they can trust you," answered Alice. "It shows that this branch is becoming important."

She went quietly about her work, but there was a happy light in her eyes, for she was as much pleased at this sign of confidence as was Bradley himself.

Alice was not a girl of impulses, but she had come to have more than a liking for Bradley, and she took a pride in his success.

The week that followed was a busy one. Bradley figured far into the night on the problems of cost, and each morning he gave to Alice the results of his work, to be tabulated on the machine and filed in the safe until the figures should be complete. It was weary work with all the specifications and blanks, but at last the estimates were complete, and Bradley took it on to New York in person for the approval of the home office.

He was jubilant on his return. The president of the company had congratulated him on the excellence of his work and had hinted that the new London office might be opened soon with Bradley in charge.

But the jubilation was short lived, for two days later a long letter came from the New York office instructing the branch to alter the estimates in accordance with a set of figures some 10 per cent in advance of the original estimate.

"There's a job for you," growled Bradley as he took the paper to Alice's desk. "I'll have to do as the home office says, but it's throwing away the contract and my chance of promotion."

"Are you certain that it is the order of the New York office?" asked Alice as she took up the sheets. "You know that this contract and my position are due to the trust if they are able to make it away from us. It means a great deal more to us to retain it."

"That's just it," explained Bradley. "They know that if we lose this contract we lose our fight for an independent existence and shall have to sell out to the trust at their own price. If we get it, it will mean that we can beat them and hold our own. Yet they wile my figures."

"And it will be worth a great effort to beat us," went on Alice. "Suppose that the trust people had some one planted in the home office who could copy the figures and send them to the trust office. Suppose, too, that they supplied the people with our letter heads and envelopes. We would be unhelpful and change the bid in accordance with instructions, only to find out that we had been duped after the bids had been opened and the contract awarded to the trust. I think you will find that they have bid only slightly lower than this, but much higher than your original figures."

"That's possible," admitted Bradley. "I'll warn the home office and get to work. And warn the traitor in the office that his plans have been discovered!" reminded Alice. "They will then bid below your figures and get the contract anyway. It would be best to hold on and take chances by yourself. It will be the only way to hold the contract."

"If I only could," exclaimed Bradley. "But I can't act on mere guesswork."

"This is something more than guesswork," insisted Alice. "In the place, this letter is mailed from the Madison square station. That is in the building in which the trust has its main office. Our letters all come from the Wall street office, for on the main line away and nearest our office. They are using the same name of the typewriter President Hammond's stenographer uses, but it is not the same machine. On the letters from our of-ice there is a piece broken from the cross of every 'L'."

"I think you are right," cried Bradley as he compared two letters. "Well, pop in the original estimate, and when they come to open the bids out our trust friends will have a done fight."

"But answer this letter and say that changes have been made in the bid in accordance with instructions and that the bid has been submitted," directed Alice. "Then the traitor will not be alarmed and notify the trust to put in the lower bid."

"You're the general," cried Bradley admiringly. "I'll answer the second in command until this is straightened out. Do just as you please."

That evening a letter went to the home office reporting that the changes had been made as directed, but Bradley personally took to the office of the contracting company the original bid. Two days later a long telegram arrived from the head office demanding the explanation of the changes to which Bradley made reference. It was Alice who wrote the telegram in reply, explaining what those changes were, and who wrote the second message declaring it to be impossible to alter the bid to the old figures, as they directed by wire.

The next morning President Hammond stamped into the office shortly after Bradley's coming in.

"I came out on the fast train to see what it all means," he cried. "You have ruined the company by letting yourself be fooled in the fashion."

For reply Bradley brought out the letter he had received. It startled Hammond, for beyond question it was on the paper of the company and on a cheap imitation. He signed as he laid it down.

"I suppose that you cannot be blamed," he said dispassionately. "But it means that the company is smashed by a trick of the trust."

"Not yet," declared Bradley, with a laugh. "Miss Fuller's quick eyes saw through the trick. We took a chance and put in the original bid. I think you will find that we are the lowest bidders, for the trust felt safe in keeping up their bid."

"If we win, you can have the London office next month," declared Hammond.

"Excuse me a moment," said Bradley as he slipped out to the outer office. "It's a go," he announced beamingly.

"Miss Fuller says that she will come as Mrs. Bradley."

"Father suddenly?" asked Hammond. "It's sudden only in the recent realization that I have loved her ever since she came into the office," explained Bradley. "It took this crisis to force the fact home."

Alice looked in at the doorway.

"The Wallington people telephone that your estimate has won the contract," she reported demurely, and to her great embarrassment Bradley kissed her under the approving eyes of the president of the company.

"We've tricked the tricky trust," he cried, "and we're going to London on our honeymoon."

"On your trip," added the president.

"We can't do too much for the girl whose clever brain saved the company. You're a lucky man, Bradley."

"Don't know I am," cried Bradley. "I knew it first."

Lungs and Long Life.

One of the most remarkable cases of longevity on record is that of an Englishman born in 1483, whose delicate appearance made all the doctors give him up when he was in the cradle. His chest was so narrow, says the report, that he seemed to have difficulty in breathing. Well, this young moribund, condemned by the doctors to die in short order, died in 1651 at the age of 168. He saw the reign of ten kings. Second Ilango, consul of Venice at Smyrna, measured only fifty-seven centimeters around the chest, and one of his lungs was diseased. Nevertheless he lived to the age of 115 years. He was married five times and had forty-nine children. When he was 120 years old he got his wisdom teeth. When he was 110 his hair turned black again. At 112 his eyebrows and his beard turned black.

Lucky in One Way.

"The late Valerian Gribayedoff," said a Chicago art editor, "was one of the first American newspaper sketch artists. On that account he leaves behind him a famous name. As Gribayedoff said himself the last time I visited him in Paris, his fame was due not to his great artistic skill, but to his luck in coming first. And he added, with a laugh, that it was always lucky to come early and avoid the rush. Instantly the case of a bankrupt on the Route Mich, in the Latin quarter, where a young poet had a large turnover of soup spilled over his coat one evening. The waiter, in response to the savage outcries of the poet, said good naturedly:

"Oh, well, you needn't alarm yourself, sir. There's no harm done. Our soup never stains after half past 7."

All in Red.

The playboys over their supper of lobster banquet. "I," said the greatest of them, with a complacent glance at the two pure pearls in his shirt front, "deserve the color of every actress' frock."

"That is carrying the regard for detail too far," said a playboy who had fallen. "Not a bit of it," said the other. "If I didn't decide the color of the dresses the stage manager would. Why, that must always be done. Otherwise, in their overmastering desire to draw all eyes to themselves, actresses would wear bright red. In my first play the frocks were forgotten in the general excitement, and at the first dress rehearsal all six actresses came on in the discovery scene in scarlet gowns."—New York Press.

FACE TO FACE.

A New Problem For Women.

In the looking glass a woman often sees wrinkles, hollow circles under the eyes, brown feet—all because she did not turn to the right remedy when worn down with those troubles which are distinctly feminine. Backache, headache, nervousness and the pains and drains of womanhood bring with them a feeling that the face is sure to show it.

Every woman, young or old, is well protected from the blues, nervousness, headache, and the many symptoms of disease so prevalent among our women—if they will conscientiously take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a safe and sure remedy for the ills of womanhood, because it contains not a particle of alcohol, digitalis or any deleterious drugs.

Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by this splendid prescription which was used by Doctor Pierce in his large private practice in the specialty of women's diseases. Every woman troubled in this way should write at once for a copy of this wonderful 'Herald' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering as they imagine, one from a cold, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all poison attack to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases for which he assumes them to be such, prescribe his pills and poisons. In many cases the only symptoms caused by some womb disease. The physician ignorant of the causes of suffering, encourages this practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient goes no better, but probably worse, by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the disease, would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and restoring comfort instead of grossing misery. It has been well said that a disease known is half cured. It is cases almost innumerable, after all other medicines had failed to help and doctors were at a loss as to what to do, that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, supplemented, when necessary, by the medical advice and control of Dr. Pierce, has resulted in a perfect and permanent cure.

THE SACRIFICIARY. To refute the many false and malicious attacks, bogus formulas and other untruthful statements published concerning Dr. Pierce's Family Medicine, the doctor has decided to publish all the ingredients entering into them and place the same on the wrapper inclosing each bottle. The exact working formula for making these medicines out Dr. Pierce and his collaborating chemists and pharmacists many years of study and experiments, but as perfected they produce almost a perfect physiological and medicinal principles residing in the ingredients employed, and preserving them perfectly for any length of time and in any way without the use of a drop of alcohol.

These are the Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by Dr. E. V. Kelsey 40 years ago, by old Dr. E. V. Kelsey, who has been made famous by his 'Kelsey's' pills. They have been made imitated but never equalled. Smallness, easiness to take and low price. They are made of purest and best ingredients. A compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts. Without disturbance of trouble, constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick and bilious headache, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured. Permanently cured, too. By their mild and natural action, these little pills gently lead the system into natural ways, and their influence lasts.

TRAGEDIES IN TRIGG.

A Suicide And an Accidental Death.

Cadiz, Ky., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Jeff Taylor, wife of a prominent farmer living in the southern part of this county, committed suicide Wednesday night by drowning herself in a well, after having cut her throat with a pocket knife. She arose some time during the night, while the other members of the family were asleep, and her lifeless body was found next morning in the well.

Her mind had been unbalanced for a year or more, and several weeks ago she attempted to drown herself by jumping into the well, but was rescued by her two little daughters. She was about forty-five years of age.

Miss Sallie Martin, living in the southern part of this county, and daughter of the late Capt. J. W. Martin, met a horrible death Thursday afternoon. She was at a pond near her home doing the family washing, and in working near the fire under the kettle her clothing caught on fire, and in her excitement she evidently never thought of jumping into the pond to extinguish the fire, but started frantically for the house, some distance away. She fell exhausted before she reached the house, with her clothing and her hair all burned off and her body badly burned, and died in a few hours thereafter in terrible agony. She was about 30 years of age.

Her brother, M. M. Martin, was murdered at Gracey last year by a negro, who has never been captured.

BOYS WERE GOOD.

And Hallowe'en Was as Quiet as a May Morning.

Hopkinsville passed through the dreaded Hallowe'en night without any disturbances or disorders of any kind, except a fire alarm about two o'clock, which proved to be a small fire at Sutton's saloon, corner Weber street and Central avenue, which was put out before any damage was done. So far as heard from, there were no gates removed or lawn furniture molested. The boys were all on their good behavior and the evening was quiet and uneventful, except for three entertainments with Hallowe'en features. The Methodist Sunday school had a ghost party at the old Hopson home, the Cumberland Presbyterian had a similar one at Hotel Latham and the High school pupils entertained the visiting High School boys from Paducah at the Westminster Presbyterian church.

Many of the young people enjoyed themselves at these entertainments and then went quietly home. No one attempted to indulge in the usual disorders in any part of the city.

FOOT BALL GAME

Hopkinsville Victorious in One, Paducah the Other.

The Paducah High School team defeated the High school eleven Saturday by the score of 10 to 2. Paducah made both their touchdowns in the first half, while Hopkinsville made a safety in the second. In the second half the game resolved itself into a punting duel and one of the home team's punts rolled over Paducah's line and Paducah attempted to run it back but was thrown by Rudd behind the goal line. The game was the best High School game ever witnessed in the city and a large crowd attended.

In the contest between the Madisonville Athletics and the McLean football team here Friday, the latter was victorious. The score was 12 to 0.

Case Affirmed.

The district court of appeals at San Francisco, Cal., has affirmed the judgment of the lower court in the case of Cordelia Botkin, who was convicted in 1904 of murder in the first degree and sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Mrs. John P. Dunning, of Dover, Del., by means of poisoned candy, sent through the mails.

POLITICAL POINTS

Mr. Bryan spent yesterday in Kansas and reached his home at night for a demonstration at Lincoln.

John Mitchell, the labor leader, issued an address yesterday declaring it his judgment that Bryan's election would be best for the country.

Attorney General Breathitt wound up the campaign for the Republicans here yesterday with a speech at the court house.

Mr. Bryan's train going into Chicago Saturday night was delayed four hours and 25,000 people at four big meetings were disappointed and failed to hear him speak.

Hearst read more stolen letters Saturday. One referred to the payment of $3,000 for a year's subscription to the Manufacturer's Record, by the Standard Oil Co.

Seven prominent citizens were injured, three seriously, in a political riot at Lebanon, Ind., Saturday afternoon. It was charged by the Democrats that the Republicans violated a non-corruption agreement.

From the most reliable sources, Indiana is safe for the Democratic ticket, notwithstanding an enormous corruption fund has been sent to the State by the Republicans. Marshall's victory for Governor is conceded by many conservative Republicans. Bryan, it is claimed, will carry the state by at least 15,000 plurality.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, is said his election forecast Saturday putting 333 votes in the "certainly Democratic" column. He includes in this list West Virginia, New York, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Kansas. Mr. Mack says his report is based on the most accurate information obtainable, and he has not the slightest doubt that Bryan and Kern will sweep the country. Frank H. Hitchcock, the Republican chairman, in his forecast, claims 325 votes for Taft and Sherman.

To City Voters.

Don't forget to take your registration certificate with you to the polls, as you cannot vote without showing it. If you have lost it, you can get another at the clerk's office by paying a small fee.

NEW BOXES.

Had to be Made For the Election To-day.

The ballot to be used today contains seven party tickets and an additional column for voting on the stock law. It is two feet long and almost as wide. The ballot boxes heretofore used were about the size of a rail keg, but they were found to be too small for the present election and Sheriff Renshaw had 30 new ones made almost as large as a flour barrel. They are made of tin, are barrel shaped and were made by Adwell & Stowe, local tinners.

Hallowe'en Celebrators.

Belton, Tex., Nov. 1.—Fire started by Hallowe'en rogues here late last night totally destroyed the Belton Compress and 10,000 bales of cotton. The loss will exceed $250,000, which is covered by insurance. Twenty residences were damaged by the fire and water, and seventeen loaded freight cars burned, which will increase the total loss by $10,000.

J. F. Ellis closed a deal last week by which a valuable farm in South Christian changes hands.

87 Arrests.

The report of the chief of police for the month of October shows that there were 87 arrests during the month.

Residence Sold.

J. F. Ellis has sold Fount Meacham's two-story residence on Elm street.

NIGHT RIDER SUITS

On Docket in Federal Court at Paducah.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 2.—Four night rider suits, with an aggregate total of $200,000 damages sought, are on the docket of the Federal Court of the Western district, which will sit here November 16. The largest suit is that of Henry Bennett, the merchant of Dycusburg, who filed suit in Louisville for $100,000 against the night rider organization. It has been transferred to Paducah. The Federal Court at Paducah is the only court that has ever tried a night rider suit, the first being the Hollowell suit, in which a verdict for $35,000 was returned in the second trial. The suits on the docket now are: Henry Bennett, for $100,000 damages against the organization for the Dycusburg raid; Nat Frizzell, colored, $25,000; Maggie Scruggs, colored, $50,000, and L. A. Baker, colored, $25,000, for the Birmingham raid. The trial will draw many hundreds of defendants and witnesses. In the Birmingham raid there are seventy-one defendants, while in the Bennett suit there are eighty-seven defendants. Should the usual defense of alibi be established by the alleged night riders the population of Paducah temporarily would be increased several hundred.

If you are a sufferer from that most distressing affliction, piles, and have tried many remedies without being benefited we can safely say that Manzan Pile Remedy will bring relief with the first application. Sold by Anderson-Fowler Drug Co., Incorporated.

TOBACCO BARN BURNS.

Suspicious of Incendiarism Brings Out Bloodhounds.

Owingsville, Ky., Oct. 30.—A general merchandise store and tobacco barn of Jacob McClure was burned at Sherbourne, this county, last night by night riders. Bloodhounds were brought from Lexington and put on the trail. The sheriff and posse left this morning for the scene and every effort will be made to capture the incendiaries. Mr. McClure had sent a niece, who was making her home with him, to the Reform School last spring, and feeling has since been very bitter against him in that neighborhood.

Mr. McClure had received several notices signed "Night Riders," stating that he had too much property at stake to meddle in other business. Loss $12,000; no insurance.

Resignation Accepted.

Rev. Millard A. Jenkins has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church, to take effect after the second Sunday in December. The resignation was reluctantly accepted by the church and the Board of nine deacons was appointed a committee to recommend another pastor to the church.

Some Things Worth Remembering.

When in need of anything in the Jewelry or Optical line, get it from the OLD RELIABLE, then there will be no question as to the article being just what it is represented to be, and as cheap as the same quality can be bought for anywhere.

Only one price to all, rich and poor, old and young; and you have the assurance from an exclusively practical jeweler who has been in the business in Hopkinsville a quarter of a century and who does not misrepresent his goods either in price or quality.

Hundreds of articles bought from M. D. Kelly over thirty years ago are to be seen today in use, and are the best evidence of the quality of goods sold by the old reliable. These are considerations that should not be forgotten.
